Event Title	Women in Reinsurance Analytics	Event short ID:	Reinsurance & Data
Date of Event	22/04/2026	Expiry date:	No expiry
Learning Aims	By the end of this webinar, participants will be able to:•Understand the fundamentals of reinsurance and how it differs from primary insurance.• Explain how data and analytics support underwriting and portfolio decisions, including pricing and catastrophe modelling.• Recognise how technical skills (e.g., statistics, coding, modelling) translate into business impact within a reinsurance context.• Identify transferable skills relevant to careers in reinsurance data and analytics.• Appreciate different career pathways and progression opportunities within reinsurance.• Gain insight into professional experiences and diversity in the industry, particularly the journey of women in data roles.
Key skills	• Data Analysis & Modelling • Technical Tools • Commercial & Risk Awareness • Communication & Influence • Problem-Solving & Adaptability
Outcomes	This webinar offers a friendly, behind the scenes look at careers in reinsurance data and analytics, showing how technical skills turn into real underwriting and portfolio decisions. Attendees will get a clear, high level introduction to reinsurance, hear practical examples from actuarial pricing and catastrophe modelling, and see how analytics helps shape risk appetite and optimise portfolios. The session will also highlight transferable skills, career flexibility, and the experience of building a rewarding career as a woman in data within the reinsurance industry.
