Event Details

Event Title	AI and Data: Hype and History	Event short ID:	AI and Data
Date of Event	10/12/2025	Expiry date:	No expiry
Learning Aims	This session aims to help Data Professionals understand the context of AI, site it historically, and to understand how we manage data and information is vital to the normalisation, and particularly the successful normalisation of AI. No expertise is required
Key skills	Reminder that nothing happens in isolation, that we are simply building on what has gone before and laying foundations for what comes after. By working together and combining skills we make progress
Outcomes	Be clear about the role data has had, and continues to have, alongside other technologies, in the latest hype around AI. You will be reminded about why data quality matters and how this contributes to good AI and be reminded of the basics that are often forgotten when there is enthusiasm for something new and think about how that translates into the workplace
